"THE REEL VIRGINIAN".

By Mack Sennett

The hero, a cowpuncher of the Western plains, is violently in love with the newly-arrived school teacher. Meanwhile, Uncle Louie and his mail-order bride-to-be arrive in town. A double wedding is about to take place when the hero is accused of being the head of a gang of cattle thieves. Just as he is about to be hung, the mail-order fiancée, who is in reality a male detective dressed in woman's clothes, arrives on the scene with a posse and arrests the real gang. All ends well for the hero and his school teacher sweetheart.

mouse bump into Farmer Al and carry him along. Al finally flops off of the hog and bounces along the road a bit, picks himself up and struggles toward home. When he arrives home the otherwise, good wife is waiting ---instantly misunderstands his dazed condition for drunkenness and tells him so point blank, then to make matters worse crowns him with a rolling pin/ The last of it all is Al staggering away, much the worse for wear.
